2018 SMALL SHIP CRUISES
U.S. RIVERS & CANALS | GREAT LAKES | CANADA | BELIZE

blountadventure.com  800-556-7450
Dear Fellow Travelers,

For me, small ship cruising isn’t just a business, it’s a way of life. I love the way our vessels take travelers to out of the way places that larger ships cannot get to. Like you, I’ve traveled many different kinds of ways. But I always come back to small ships because in a word it’s … Freedom.

The freedom to explore. The freedom to relax. The freedom to disconnect. For 52 years we have remained committed to my father’s vision: make cruising with Blount feel like sailing on a friend’s yacht. That’s why we dock where private yachts do; and sail up rivers that larger ships cannot.

In 2018, we are thrilled to offer 5 NEW cruise itineraries and the return of an old favorite.

Belize - A new twist on a classic adventure. This itinerary combines watersports, paradise and discovery.

West Palm to Savannah - Travel from vibrant West Palm Beach through historic St. Augustine and into the pristine Sea Islands before continuing north into antebellum Savannah, GA.

Savannah to Baltimore - The southern charms of Savannah and Charleston combine with coastal cruising and the historic cities of Annapolis and Baltimore to create an unforgettable small ship adventure.

Maine & New Brunswick - Cruise the gorgeous North Atlantic coast from historic Boston, MA through the quaint ports of Maine and into scenic New Brunswick, Canada.

New England Islands Escape - The charms of Martha’s Vineyard, Block Island and Newport come alive on this 4-day cruise getaway.

Historic Massachusetts Sampler - Sail in and out of Boston, visit mystical Salem; historic Plymouth; and the quintessential New England island of Martha’s Vineyard.

Whichever small ship adventure you choose, thank you for sailing with Blount!

Sincerely,

Nancy Blount
President, Blount Small Ship Adventures

Sailing with Blount means navigating the waters less traveled in a personal, uncrowded way.

Go places that are inaccessible to larger cruise ships, dock where private yachts dock, and get away from manufactured experiences. On a Blount cruise, you’ll never stand in long lines or feel lost in a crowd. With only 84 passengers, you will feel like you are cruising on a friend’s yacht.

Boldt Castle, Alexandria Bay, NY
In 1910 E.B. Blount & Sons Oyster Company in Warren, Rhode Island was a thriving family business. In coastal Rhode Island, the oyster beds were bountiful and every morning fresh oysters went out by the crate to eager buyers around the state. But in 1938 the Great New England Hurricane changed everything. The devastation caused by the hurricane lasted for decades. Blount’s once thriving oyster beds, were left in shambles.

Luther Blount became VP of E.B. Blount & Sons and was determined to keep the family business alive. In 1947, the young engineering graduate got to work on a series of innovations. By creating a new method of steaming clams, Blount shellfish made its way into Campbell’s soups clam chowder. And as a result, into homes across New England.

Two years later Luther Blount transformed the family business from oysters to shipbuilding. He took the once bustling oyster processing plant and turned it into a workspace for constructing a new oyster boat. In doing so he found a new calling in shipbuilding. By 1962 Blount had built 100 vessels including New York’s Circle Line ferries and introduced the concept of dinner boats in ports around the U.S. Luther found inspiration for future cruise itineraries by personally delivering the vessels he built. For the years that followed, the Blounts combined business and pleasure by spending their vacations aboard the family boat; sailing, fishing, and enjoying time together on the water.

Soon friends and family asked to join their trips and a vision began to take shape in Luther’s mind. With his signature sense of determination, this vision soon became American Canadian Caribbean Line, a new small ship cruise line, offering voyages unlike any others available. By 1970 the inventor in Luther blended with his adventurous side and he began to patent unique features of his boats. These patents would one day become the signature of Blount Small Ship Adventures, including a retractable pilot-house and a bow ramp.

Luther’s patented bow ramp made it possible to step into the waters of secluded coves and shallow riverbanks; glass bottom boats provided passengers with a diver’s eye; and his patented retractable pilot house – combined with the shallow draft of the ships – made previously inaccessible routes possible. Blount continued to create interesting cruise itineraries from the 1970’s-1990’s, taking passengers beyond the U.S. to places like Panama, Belize and Canada. A reputation for adventurous cruising was built.

From the white sandy beaches of the Caribbean to the lush hills of Central America; from the serene waters of the Great Lakes to the rich history of the Northeast, Blount continued to seek out new unexplored destinations and waterways only Blount boats could access. He even built one boat specifically to go under the bridges of the Erie Canal.

Back on land, Luther continued to revive his family legacy. He worked tirelessly to bring oysters back to Rhode Island, in the waters of his beloved Narragansett Bay. He even bought an island refuge to help the cause. His major donation to a local university created a program that taught students about marine wildlife, and challenged them with cultivating new oyster beds. The goal remained simple and clear: rebuild what Rhode Island had lost back in 1938.

Luther passed the reins of the cruise business to his daughter Nancy in 2006 and his boat building business is now led by daughters Marcia and Julie. In 2010, after a complete retrofit of the fleet, what was once American Canadian Caribbean Line was rebranded to honor the legacy of the man who started it all. Blount Small Ship Adventures was born.

Today, the company remains committed to Luther’s vision for innovative cruising buoyed by a spirit of adventure.
